SUMMARY

The compensation summary is discussed and presented in the “Confidential” version of the report.

BACKGROUND

In August 2014, the City issued its Executive Compensation Policy at City Agencies and Corporation (Guidelines), of which this review is in response.

This is the “Public” portion of the report, which together with the “Confidential” portion of the report (i.e., a separate but associated document) would be the consolidated response to the City’s Guidelines, which are summarized as follows:

1. The TTC Human Resources & Labour Relations Committee of the Board of Directors (Committee) has sole oversight for the review.
2. Job descriptions must be current and must be approved by the Committee.
3. The technical underpinning of the compensation analysis (e.g., comparator group, evaluation points, etc.) can be discussed with management, but ultimately must be approved by the Committee.
4. The comparator group must only be of public sector organizations; no private sector organizations should be considered.
5. The report will identify comparability across all compensation elements. The report will recommend levels of cash compensation (i.e., salary range and variable pay) but the report will not be expected to suggest changes to benefit and/or pension programs if any such gaps are observed.
6. The suggested salary range midpoint should be set at the median / 50th percentile of the approved market, and the range minimums and maximums should be set at 15% variances from the midpoint.
7. Pay-for-performance programs, (i.e., merit salary adjustment and/or variable pay) should be discussed for consideration, and their collective award opportunity cannot exceed 25% of incumbent salary. If the recommendation is that they should be considered, their actual design can be in a future Phase II portion of work.
8. If either / both of the pay-for-performance programs are not recommended, it would not be expected that the organization has higher than P50 salaries as an offset.
9. The manner by which “workplace climate & culture” is assessed is at the discretion of the organization. If it is deemed that effort must be incurred to change the culture, that effort would be a future Phase II portion of work.
10. The manner by which the “termination process” is assessed is at the discretion of the organization. If it is deemed that a better process is required, it will be designed in a future Phase II portion of work.

JOB DESCRIPTIONS

Hay Group was provided with Committee-approved job descriptions for the eleven jobs included in this review as well as various current organizational data. This information was used to provide our initial understanding of the executive jobs in order to frame our job evaluation assessments.

The eleven current job descriptions are included in Appendix A.

Hay Group also contrasted the current TTC organization structure to past structures that we have assessed, which allowed us to appreciate important changes in the mandates and scope of various roles.

After reviewing the job documents, Hay Group interviewed the CEO to further appreciate important job nuances that are difficult to fully articulate in a description. It is Hay Group's opinion that the combination of the updated job documents supported by the current organizational data, and the interview with the CEO was sufficient to fully understand the nature of the eleven executive jobs.

JOB EVALUATION

Job evaluation is discussed and presented in the “Confidential” version of the report.

COMPARATOR GROUPS

Three comparator groups have been selected for the market pricing analysis. They are:

1. Twenty-seven public sector Hay Group database participants (Group of 27)
2. Broad Ontario public sector (Group of 82)
3. City of Toronto pay standards for comparable jobs (City Toronto)

Group of 27

The Hay Group database is comprised of many hundreds of public and private sector organizations, of which the twenty-seven illustrated in Appendix B were selected as the primary comparator group for this review.

The twenty-seven organizations are all of the public sector, which is according to the City's guidelines, and are all participants in the Hay Group database, such that they may be compared to TTC on a basis of "same job evaluation points".

The entire Hay Group database was presented to, and discussed with the Committee on August 20, 2015, and the Committee selected and approved its final list during that meeting.

Group of 82

The Committee wanted to be aware of the degree that the Group of 27 may be an unusually high or low paying group relative to the broad market. Therefore, we also chose to compile a data set of the entire 82 Ontario-based public sector organizations in the Hay Group database to assess the pay competitiveness of the Group of 27. The Group of 82 organizations are illustrated in Appendix C.

City Toronto

The City of Toronto salary grades are underpinned by Hay Points. Therefore, with the City's permission, we are illustrating the City salary standards (i.e., Job Rates) for the City grades in which the TTC evaluation points would align.

MARKET COMPENSATION ANALYSIS

Market comparison is discussed and presented in the “Confidential” version of the report.

PERFORMANCE MANAGEMENT

Performance management is discussed and presented in the “Confidential” version of the report.

VARIABLE PAY PROGRAM

Variable pay is discussed and presented in the “Confidential” version of the report.

EMPLOYEE ENGAGEMENT

Employee engagement is discussed and presented in the “Confidential” version of the report.

TERMINATION

Termination is discussed and presented in the “Confidential” version of the report.
